Police seeking man in attack on transient

By Steve Marschke

A man is in critical condition after he was found beaten nearly to death in an abandoned building in the city's eastern area.

Two transients reported finding Steve Gibbons, another transient, injured in an abandoned CalTrans building at Riske and Delta lanes in West Sacramento shortly after midnight Sunday morning.

"He was beaten severely about the head," said Lt. Dave Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department. "We have one possible suspect, or possible witness. He's a white male, 18 to 20 years old, wearing 'punk rocker' clothing, with a thin build, around 5' 8". He may go by the name of 'Junior.'"

The man is wanted for questioning. Anyone with information is asked to call the police investigations unit, 372-2461.

Gibbons, whom Farmer said appears to be in his 30s, is in a coma at UCD Medical Center. There were no signs of an obvious motive, such as robbery, for the attack.

West Sac will look at sewage, water rights deal with Davis

■ Councilman Mark Montemayor throws a new option into West Sacramento's sewage solution search

By Steve Marschke

As West Sacramento city staff narrowed its recommendations on how to provide expandage sewage treatment service to the growing city, city council member Mark Montemayor asked them last week to take a look at a completely different option: shipping the city's sewage to Davis for treatment.

The city's community development department staff had already tossed away the idea of building a new plant in West Sacramento, and was preparing to ask the city council to consider either expanding the current plant or sending the city's wastes to Sacramento's regional plant.

Montemayor would like the staff to look west as well as east.

"Because Davis is thinking about expanding their plant, and Davis has a serious need for water, I was thinking it might be possible to sell Davis some of our surplus water rights," said Montemayor. "It would be water we're not using and wouldn't be using even at full buildout, so we'd use the benefits from that to pay to hook up to their sewage treatment plant. Sort of a trade."

Montemayor said that the mayor of Davis, Lois Wolk, will be asking her own city staff to look at the idea. Also in the realm of possibility is the creation of a regional water authority involving West Sacramento, Davis, UC Davis and Woodland, all combining to address their water and sewage needs as a group.

Montemayor said that one drawback to going to a Yolo County sewage plant could be higher costs, because the Sacramento plant is bigger and has the benefit of economy of scale. But foremost in Montemayor's consideration, he said, is holding sewage rates down for residential customers.

The city's business customers are lining up in favor of the Sacramento option because they feel that is the best way to hold down costs for businesses, said Montemayor.

Steve Patek, director of the community development department, said his staff does not yet have any details or projections on the Davis option.

Hardware store & city participate:

New locations to accept batteries for recycling

The city's recycling division has kicked off its newest program, the Household Battery Collection program. The program provides for a safe, responsible way of disposing of dry cell household batteries.

Millions of household batteries are purchased annually in California with sales of these batteries projected to increase nearly fifty percent by the year 2000. Portable power offered by household batteries has become an increasingly important component of everyday life. Most consumers do not recognize how many batteries they use during routine activities. The vast majority of batteries are sealed inside consumer products such as cordless phones, cameras, toys, pocket calculators, watches, etc.

Residents are now able to drop off used household batteries at all city office locations and Hollywood Hardware, located at 1551 Merkley Avenue. Acceptable batteries include AA, AAA, C, D, Nickel-cadmium, and lithium batteries. Collected batteries will be transported to a Class A landfill specially designed to handle hazardous waste.

The program will eventually be expanded to various locations throughout the community. If you are interested in having a Battery Bucket at your place of business, or have any questions about the program, please call the Recycling Division at 373-5893.

Making West Sac a little greener

Members of the West Sacramento Girl Scouts (right) learn about proper placement of a newly planted tree, as part of the city of West Sacramento's Tree Planting Day on Saturday.

The volunteers helped plant trees at a city site in Broderick (the location of the old Salud Clinic), where the trees would be grown for use in other parts of West Sacramento.

Attendance was high -- as the faces in the photo to the right can attest.

Still resting on the bottom

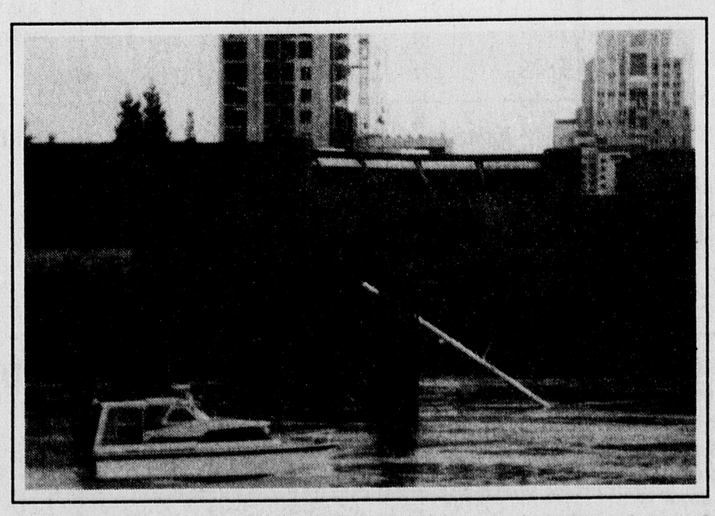

'Nam Sang' awaits further salvage efforts in murky Sacramento River

■ Rumor that a 300-lb. sturgeon shut down salvage operations is not entirely true, but there is something big down there, boat owner reports

By Steve Marschke

Near a middle span of the I Street Bridge, sticking out from the water at an odd angle, is the top of the mast of the Nam Sang, a classic yacht which sank on the river about a year ago. Salvage operations haven't stopped, said one of the boat's owners, but they have adjourned until river flows lessen and once again make diving at the site safe.

"The boat is impacted with tons and tons of sand," said Richard Johnson of Sacramento, who still has an interest in the boat. "Tons and tons of dredging need to go on, and then we'll get a barge and raise it."

A PLEASURE CRAFT motors by the current resting place of the 'Nam Sang,' whose mast angles upwards from the muddy waters south of the I St. Bridge, near the California Railroad Museum and Old Sacramento

Adding to the intrigue of trying to free the boat from the riverbottom last year was a close encounter with a fish. A big fish.

"You can't see very well down there," said Johnson. "One of the divers was down there and it brushed him aside. I don't know what something that large could have been except a sturgeon."

While sturgeon aren't exactly known for attacking people, a big one could be a hazard for divers working in close quarters in dark, murky surroundings. A rumor spread among some parts of West Sacramento that the fish had shut the salvage attempt down.

That, said Johnson, isn't true, although the presence of the large creature (weighing perhaps several hundred pounds) did "make everything a little bit more scary" for the divers.

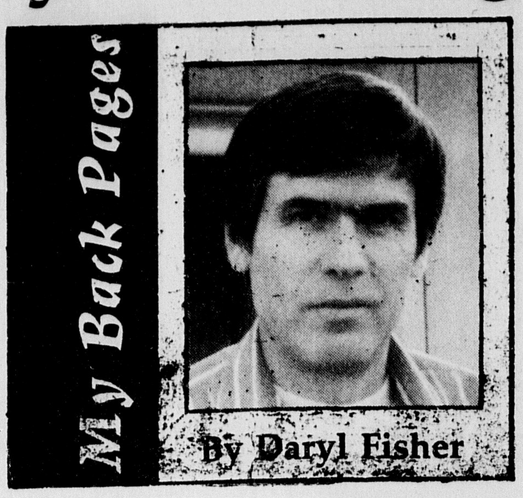

Johnson said that a team of divers has joined him in creating a non-profit foundation to rescue the yacht, and the workers were earning interest in its ownership.

He could not immediately provide reports on the history and size of the boat, but previous reports have put it at over a half century old and more than 60 feet long.

The boat sank when, travelling on a high river, its mast caught on power lines owned by

Is the woman you're living with moisturized enough?

The other morning, I leisurely strolled into the bathroom and mindlessly began my normal shower routine. I took off the t-shirt I was wearing, carefully spread it out on the floor as a mat, and stepped out of the rest of my clothes. I made sure the water was as hot as I could stand it and that the shower nozzle was positioned at just the right angle. Then, once I was thoroughly wet, I grabbed my trusty bar of Ivory soap and began the complicated scrubbing process.

As I think I mentioned in an earlier column, my particular shower routine demands that I attack from left to right and work without the aid of a washcloth. I leave scrubbing my hair to the very last, and then slowly turn counter-clockwise to rinse off.

Well, everything was going just fine until it was time to reach for my beloved Pert Plus. Much to my surprise, it was gone. "Mary," I cried out to my wife, who was putting the finishing touches of her makeup on in the bedroom next door, "where's the Pert Plus?"

"Now how would I know?" came the indifferent reply.

"The Pert Plus is gone, Mary!" I said in a panic. "Someone stole the Pert Plus!"

"No one stole the shampoo, Daryl."

"Well, it's certainly not in here on the ledge where it's supposed to be."

"The boys probably used it all up. Look in that cabinet above the towels. I think there's another bottle of it in there."

"I don't see one," I said as I pulled back the shower curtain and swung open the cabinet door.

"Then just go ahead and use one of the shampoos Carrie and I use. They're in the cabinet on the other side of the towels."

"But I'll have to get all the way out of the shower to do that."

"Have a nice day," suddenly said my smiling wife as she stuck her head in the bathroom, waved goodbye, and hurried out of the house on her way to work.

"Well, this is just great," I mumbled to myself as I stepped out of my warm shower and reluctantly went in search of untested shampoo which might do God only knows what to my hair.

Having never ventured into my wife and daughter's bathroom cabinet before, I was shocked at what I found. As I stood there dripping wet, I didn't even know where to begin. The thing was overflowing with thirty or forty different kinds of bottles, some plastic and some glass, and they came in all different shapes and colors. None of them looked like the friendly little green container my Pert Plus comes in, so I began reading labels. The one word which seemed to pop up most often was 'moisturizer', and here is just a small sample of what I found: Vaseline Intensive Care lotion for smooth legs and feet; Avon Skin-So-Soft bath oil spray; Sally Hansen's Hair Removal Wax Strip Kit for face, eyebrows, and bikini line; PCT daily conditioning and moisturizing jel for lips; Vavoom forming gel; Matrix Essentials nutrient-rich conditioner; Aloe Vera bubble bath with advanced moisturizers; Infusium 23 for fortifying hair cuticles; Abba pure and natural hair care; Vanilla body splash; Back to Basics mint leaf daily conditioner; Oil of Olay moisturizing body wash; Freeman's apricot facial scrub; Neutrogena oil free acne wash; Alberto VO5 styling gel Skintimate shave gel for women; Beautiful Bath, an energizing sea soak bath treatment with deep cleansing moisturizers; and Cortaid maximum strength anti-itch ointment.

I finally came across a bottle of something called Rusk, which claimed to be 'a gentle cleanse shampooing doux et nourrissant'. It seemed to be the only thing that had the word shampoo on it, so I decided to give it a try, but no matter how hard I tried, I couldn't get it to lather up. I rinsed it out as best I could, toweled off, put my clothes on and was trying to comb my poor limp hair when my daughter knocked on the door and reminded me it was her turn to use the bathroom.

"What's wrong with you people, anyway?" I asked her as we traded places.

"What?"

"I just went through all that garbage you and your mother use on your hair and skin. There must be a couple of hundred dollars worth of it in there. Do all women have a moisture problem?"

"What are you talking about?"

"There's got to be fifty bottles of junk in your bathroom cabinet claiming they can put moisture back in some part of a woman's body. Now just what is that all about? Do you realize I've never once in my whole entire life walked up to a woman and thought maybe she wasn't moist enough."

"Dad," she said as she shook her head and pushed me out of the bathroom, "as usual, I don't have the foggiest idea what you're talking about, but, hey, I do like your hair today."

The World Traditional "Tae Kwan Do" Union (WTTU) held its championships in Vancouver, Canada this year, on February 22. One of the four to five hundred competitors who attended was a young black belt from West Sacramento -- Bryan Folkner, who attends Westmore Oaks School and is a member of the West Sac Bears.

Folkner, one of only two Californians at the tournament, was leading the forms competition when a slip cost him the gold medal.

In the sparring competition, Folkner began by shutting out his first victim 5-0; in the semi-finals, Folkner found himself down 0-4 to a bigger, heavier Canadian black belt, only to come back with five straight points to win and go on to the finals, where he pitched another 5-0 shut-out and won a gold medal to go along with his silver.

Munsinger had to sit out a lot of the game as the referees' called three quick fowls on him and the fourth in the third quarter. River City finished with a record of 10-2 in league and 19-9 overall. River City won the league championship and will play the first T.O.C. game at home this Friday night at River City. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

"I am proud of this team and the way they performed most of the year," commented coach Jon West. "I would like to see a full house this Friday night. We don't know who we will play but it could be Galt or Rocklin."

Junior Varsity Finishes Season With 2 Wins

Mixed results from RC scrimmages

By Chuck Robinson

The River City High School baseball team has been practicing since February 1. They had a scrimmage at McClatchy one week ago on Saturday. River City had a tie with Woods, lost to McClatchy, and beat Foothill. The scrimmages were 1:20 minutes time limit.

Last Saturday they had a scrimmage with Hiram Johnson and lost by 3 runs. The team looks pretty good and should do well this year. The pitching is real good and the defense is okay. The bats have a way to go yet but should get better as they go along.

R.C. will play in the Woodland/San Juan tournament. Dates are as follows: Monday, March 3, at 3:30 p.m. at Woodland; Wednesday, March 5, at 3:30 p.m. at Christian Brothers High School; Friday, March 7, at 3:30 p.m. at River City against Davis; Tuesday, March 11, at 3:30 p.m. at Sacramento High; and Wednesday, March 12, at 3:30 p.m. at Will C. Wood.

The 49ers signed offensive lineman Kevin Gogan to a six-year deal worth $12 million, but they won't commit any money to pay Elvis Grbac from leaving San Francisco. The 49ers' backup QB looks like he's headed to Kansas City in a deal that will pay him about $4 million per year, but more important than all that cash is Elvis will be the Chiefs' starting QB in 1997.

The Chiefs are not going to re-sign ex-49ers QB Steve Bono. The 49ers are committed to Steve Young, but don't be surprised to see Bono in a 49er uniform next year as his backup! Some big name NFL quarterbacks like Warren Moon, Heath Shuler, Chris Chandler and Jeff Hostetler are looking for work these days. Warren Moon was paid $4 million last year to play, but the Vikings only offered Moon $500,000 this year, so he is a free agent.

The Giants made Barry Bonds the highest paid player in baseball last week with an extended contract worth over $11 million per season. Bonds will be with the Giants into the year 2002, but on the other hand, they may trade him next year for a couple of players to be named later!

Willie Jorrin's main event on March 20 may be postponed until early April. Jorrin was cut on top of the head in his last fight and the injury may need more time to heal. The doctor has to release the fighter before he can have sparring contact in the gym. The boxing promoter will be talking with the doctor and a new date will be announced by the end of this week.

See ya next week!!

Kings' Korner

By Richard Novoa

The Sacramento Kings (24-30) are on the road back East, facing New Jersey last night and the Boston Celtics in the first of two back-to-back series. The Kings will have a day's rest before they play the best in the NBA on Friday, the Chicago Bulls (48-6) and finish their Eastern swing on Saturday against Milwaukee.

If the Kings can win two games out of these four, it would be a great road trip.

They must win in New Jersey to have any chance of a successful trip, so let's hope Mitch Richmond has recovered from his strained ankle. Olden Polynice has been on fire over the last nine games, averaging 17.2 points, 15 rebounds and 1.2 blocks during 39 minutes per game.

The Kings rank fourth in the NBA in three point shooting at 37.8 percent. The league leaders are Charlotte (43%), Detroit (40.2%) and Cleveland (39%).

The Kings' next home game is Monday, March 3, against the New Jersey Nets. Tickets are available at the Arco Arena box office or by calling BASS tickets.

Rallies turn up the fun

The Brady Bunch pays a visit to RC's basketball homecoming rally on February 14.

By Alyssa Murphy
Staff Writer

We admit it. Rallies at River City have not been that exciting. Until now...

If you were at the February 14 Homecoming Basketball rally, you know what I'm talking about. Students crammed into the limited bleacher space and watched in delight as Mr. West, Ms. Brite, Ms. Costanza, Mrs. Connolly, Mr. Watkins, Mr. Baker, Mr. Whittemore, and our own principal, Dr. White danced around the gym floor to the theme of The Brady Bunch.

In another highlight, the Lady Raiders basketball teams led the student body in the infamous "Y-M-C-A."

And RC can expect even more. "We're working on trying to incorporate all groups at River City into the rallies so everyone will be interested, not just a certain group," says Fernando Garcia, a Leadership class member.

Leadership is also trying to add more activities students will want to participate in. "Spirit at River City has been going down. We want to raise it back up again," explains Rally Commissioner Jennifer Newkirk.

And they are doing just that. The next "new and improved" activity is Decades Week, four dress-up days beginning Tuesday, March 4. Join the Student Body that Tuesday in dressing up as a person from the future. What do you think we'd look like?

On Wednesday, travel back in time to the "Vanilla Ice" age sporting the 80's look. Thursday, get a little bit of "Disco Fever." We know it's not Saturday, but go ahead and dress as a person from the 70's.

Last, but definitely not least, we come to the best decade of all, the 60's. Come to school Friday, March 7th, wearing your favorite outfit from these influential ten years.

Also make sure to stay for another energetic rally full of skits, skits, and a talent show exhibiting all the talent one can find at River City. Like the last rally, there will be a "special appearance" of a famous group known to all of the student body.

Make sure not to miss out on all these great opportunities to show your spirit, creativity, and talent. Spirit points will be given to the class who has the most people dressed up each day.

Remember, it's the 60's. Anything's possible.

Men's basketball clinches league championship

Mark Munsinger and Andrew Odor wonder if RC deserves the champion title.

By Josh Branham
Staff Writer

The River City men's varsity basketball team clinched the Golden Empire League title on Valentine's Day, with an impressive 86-43 victory over the Lincoln Zebras. This will automatically put the Raiders in the playoffs for the first time in five years. Coach West had predicted that his team would go to the playoffs.

The offensive and defensive prowess of Mark Munsinger has led the Raiders to victories all year long. But emotional leader Andrew Odor, the enforcer Will Welcher, and the great play of the rest of the team have also been an integral part of the team's success. The Raiders have a 19-9 overall record and 10-2 in league play.

But the truth must be told. The Raiders have benefitted greatly from the recruiting violations committed by Encina High School. Encina was forced to forfeit most of their wins because of these violations, putting RC in first place. This has caused some turmoil. Though the team won the title, some players feel that the team does not deserve it. Mark Munsinger and Andrew Odor, among others, said that they believe that Encina should be champs. These comments came a day after an upsetting overtime loss to Encina, 86-83, last Wednesday night. Encina won without the illegal recruits.

Coach West responded, "Then who does deserve the title? Not Encina because they cheated, so we (RC) are next in line."

Academic Decathlon students take home medals and awards

Jayson Gawthorpe brings home the most medals and a high overall ranking.

By Staff Writer
David R. Williams

River City took second in Super Quiz, fourth overall, and came home with 10 medals from the Academic Decathlon on Saturday, February 1 at Esparto High School. River City was one of five schools to compete in Yolo County.

The students of RC had a whole day of difficult tests in several academic areas, speeches, and essays. With only a half- hour for lunch and one short break the team was busy the whole day, from 8:00 to 4:00. The Super Quiz was open to the public and began at 3:15. This year's theme was "The Information Revolution".

Congratulations to Sultan Yusufzai who got a gold in essay and a silver in economics, Mark Marshall who got a gold in language and literature and a gold in economics. Also to Christopher Cardoza who got a silver in speech, a bronze in fine arts, and a bronze in math.

A special congratulations goes to Jayson Gawthorpe who got a gold in essay, a gold in speech, and a bronze in social science; not only did he do all that, Jayson also had the third top score overall.

Basketball homecoming brings fun and laughter

From Oleg Panchuk
Commissioner of Publicity

River City's basketball homecoming week was February 10-14. Every class made a float following the basketball homecoming theme--professional basketball teams. Freshmen chose the Sacramento Kings, sophomores the Seattle Supersonics, juniors the New York Knicks, and seniors the Charlotte Hornets.

The floats were judged on February 14 during the seventh period rally, and the seniors won. The rally really was a blast and one of the best activities put on by the student government in years. Many teachers felt it was a wonderful and enjoyable experience. Many students participated in skits, games, and dances. The overall winner of the rally was the senior class, followed the juniors, sophomores, and freshmen.

Of course, you can't have a homecoming without royalty. The basketball homecoming royalty were announced at the Sweetheart Dance the evening of February 14. The king was Oleg Panchuk and the queen was Meuy Saechao. Juniors voted Arturo Favis as prince and Douangchanh Lattasima as princess. Eric Macias was crowned duke and Jill Braden dutchess. For the freshman class, Carl Carter was named count and Jaqueline White was named countess.

Following tradition, a basketball game was played the night of the dance which RC won against both the jv and varsity Lincoln teams by a substantial margin. As well, the RC Raiders clinched the championship, and in a show of victory cut down most of the basketball nets in the gym.

Ms. Virk likes our science "stuff"

By Patricia Huckabay
Staff Writer

Science-the final frontier. You are voyagers on Captain Virk's spaceship of science. Actually, it is Doreen Virk's classroom of science. She is a new face on our campus. Ms. Virk is taking over for Ms. Jain this semester.

Ms. Virk was born in Salisbury, Mass. She is 40 years old, married and has two sons, ages 6 and 8. Ms. Virk went to California State University, Los Angeles, for four years where she majored in microbiology. She has been teaching for ten years.

Before coming to River City she taught at Sacred Heart High School in Los Angeles. Ms. Virk says there are a lot of similarities between Sacred Heart and RC, like she says "kids are kids." One difference is that she has never taught Russians before. She says they are very intellectual. Ms. Virk says that she like our science program a lot because we have more "stuff" to use in her classes. At Sacred Heart there is no honors class, and physiology's the most popular elective of all.

Ms. Virk likes our school a lot and says it has "character." In other words, our old school is unlike most schools she has seen.

If Ms. Virk is asked, she will continue teaching here next year.

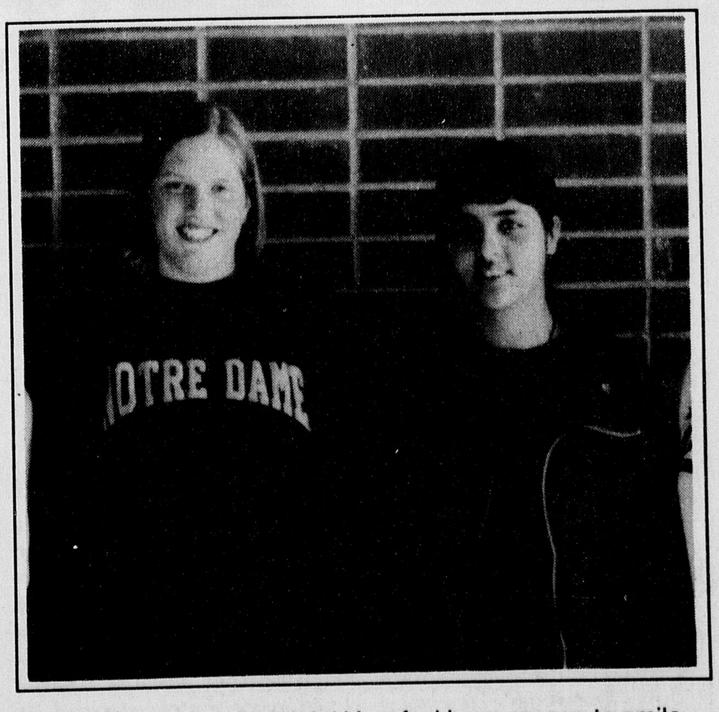

Renaissance pays for students

Malalai Yusufzai recieves $1,000 in Josten's Renaissance essay contest.

Malalai Yusufzāi, a senior at River City High School, was the first-place winner for California in an essay contest sponsored by Josten's Renaissance, in conjunction with the National Association of College Students. At the basketball homecoming rally on February 14, the 17-year-old honor student received a $1,000.00 scholarship for her essay written about the impact of an educator.

Malalai's essay acknowledges parents as "the first influential teachers in our lives, "and honors her father, Karim. Mr. Yusufzai received a masters degree in geology from Kabul University in 1973. The essay describes his determination and struggle to "get his masters degree all over again," after leaving his "diploma and other official papers" behind in the rush to escape Afghanistan's civil war. She concludes her essay, "I figure if my dad had the patience and courage to go to college twice, I can at least go to college once." In addition, Mr. Yusufzai was awarded $500.00.

Another senior honor student, Bethany Monroe, was honored for her second-place essay about the impact of the Renaissance program on her scholastic career.

Bethany Monroe and Malalai Yusufzai have reason to smile.

RC's Renaissance program rewards students for academic achievement, good attendance and good citizenship. Established at RC in 1994, the list of Renaissance students has grown from an initial 45 to 225 in spring, 1996. Each semester, students receive a student-designed Renaissance t-shirt. Other incentives include pizza parties, ice cream socials, final survival kits, and drawings for merchandise, including a class ring or a school jacket from Josten's. Renaissance gold-level seniors also receive free caps and gowns. This semester's Renaissance students are to be notified this week.

Business class picks top stocks

By Josh Branham
Staff Writer

Unless you have been living in a cave for the past month, you have probably heard about Mr. McIntyre's fifth period Intro to Business class. The class placed second in a competition called The Stock Market Game. This contest is put on every year by The Sacramento Bee. The number of entrants was well over 100.

For finishing second the class got $75, mini-calculators, and a plaque that was presented to the school. With the prize money the class decided to have a pizza party.

How did these future business tycoons do this? "Well it was luck and a lot of gambles on small companies that could have made or broken the class," said Mr. McIntyre. The top three schools all held shares of Paul Jones Co., which turned out to be the best stock.

Mr. McIntyre had his class split up into groups and each of the groups picked stocks. Then the groups all got together and picked the most popular stocks.

So, I guess if want to be in business or a Wall Street tycoon, just take chances and hope your luck doesn't run out on you.

Zeb Arundel WEX student of month

By Melissa Hemmens
Staff Writer

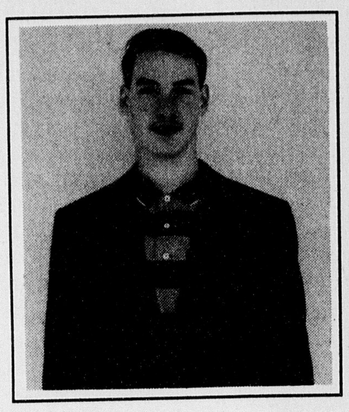

Whenever you walk into Arco on Jefferson, you can always count on February's Work Experience (WEX) Student of the Month, Zeb Arundel, to greet you with a big smile, a friendly hello and maybe even a joke to make your day.

Zeb is seventeen. He has worked at the gas station for a year and a half, and has not missed a 7:00 am work experience class this whole school year. He says it is worth getting up at 6:00 am every Wednesday because he gets to leave school early.

Asked what he enjoys about the WEX program, Zeb said he learns many important details about how to get and keep a job. Oh, yeah, and he gets to leave early. Zeb said that he does not feel that he is missing out on anything by leaving early because he has a life outside of school.

Zeb enjoys helping little old ladies pump their gas, likes dressing in 70's style clothing and, of course, likes leaving school early. The rumor is that Zeb will be taking over the gas station soon.

Zeb receives a ten dollar gift certificate for the movies as work experience student of the month.

The verdict is in: RC mock trial places in top 4 at competition

Crash! Bang! The window of the computer lab at Sierra City High School is broken. Someone enters and writes "Marshall is a fascist" across the west wall in red spray paint. Then, the vandal changes Casey Clevenger's grade to an A on the records computer.

Was this vandal computer whiz Casey Clevenger, in revenge for a B grade? This was the case put before this year's mock trial teams.

RC competes with 23 other schools in this area. This year's mock trial team, for only the second time, was in the semi-finals. Losing only to the top-placed team, Rio Americano, the RC mock trial team won three of the four rounds. Mock trial coach Mr. Mesquita said, "This was the most successful mock trial year yet."

Lawyers for this year's mock trial team were Jason Potnick, Sarom Phoung, Veronica Alarcon, Jeremiah Wenneker, Aaron Potnick, Sarah Vanderford, and Rishi Sharma. Jason Potnick was recognized for outstanding performance and Rishi Sharma was named outstanding team member.

Witnesses were Andrea Alcanter, Paul Fisher, Oleg Panchuk, Jason Potnick, Angelica Rubalcaba, and Ailysha Taylor.

Marc Solorzano was bailiff, Alyssa Murphy the court clerk, and Jessica Honsinger the defendant.

The mock trial team was honored at last night's meeting of the board of education.

River City's annual blood drive was a success! 82 people attempted to give blood, and 63 pints were collected. This is up from 57 pints last year. The blood donated at RC will help save up to 189 lives. Good job, RC!

"Omigod, you're doing WHAT to my arm?" Robyn Fritchie can't look as she donates blood at RC's annual blood drive.

Special senior likes soaps, family time

By Alyssa Murphy
Staff Writer

Periodically, we will be peeking into Room 57 where a group of students, despite challenging circumstances work to expand their minds as well as the RC spirit.

In the spotlight this issue is our own Jessica Viramontes. A senior, Jessica has many fond memories of her time spent here at River City.

"I love Homecoming's Spirit Days. It's a lot of fun," Jessica explains as her most memorable experience.

Besides school activities, Jessica loves her classes, too. "I like art the best. I've been taking it for four years," Jessica says. She has grown quite close to Mr. Shumacher, River City's art teacher.

At home, Jessica enjoys watching tv. "I like soap operas, Beverly Hills 90210 and Melrose Place," Jessica says.

She loves to spend time with her Grandma Jesse and her aunt with whom she spends most of her afternoons. "I can't wait for Easter," Jessica explains as, she gets to spend time with her mother, grandma, her three aunts, and her brother Nick's family.

After graduation, Jessica hopes to get a job through Yolo Employment Services (YES). Jobs include working at the Target Warehouse, Hewlett Packard, and many other industries.

Jessica is a versatile, extremely personable young lady who has contributed to River City's spirit immensely and has enjoyed every second of it. Her warm smile is known and adored by many. Next time you see her in the hallway, make sure to introduce yourself. She'd love to meet you.

Movie Review:

The force is back, better than ever

By Barbara Silveira
Staff Writer

Some of you might have heard that Star Wars has been brought back to the big screen. Well it has, and it is better than ever. The movie has been digitally redone, and with a few surprises thrown in.

For all you sci-fi fans out there, I recommend going out and seeing this spectacle. Watch for the little add-ins. I personally like the part where Jabba the Hut pops up in the beginning when Han Solo is getting ready to take Luke and Obi Wan Kanobi off the planet Tatooine. There are also other interesting aspects of this new version of Star Wars, but I'll let you find out for yourself.

I strongly suggest that you go and see all the improvements that have been made. If you don't care about improvements, just go to see the movie on the big screen. Star Wars is a lot better in the movie theater than it is on video. So go and see it, and "May the Force be with you."

PROM '97

By Lisa Galvez
Staff Writer

For you juniors and seniors already scouting out prom dates, you have only two months left. This year's prom will be put on by the junior class and held on April 25, 9-12pm, at the Tsakopolas Library Galleria located in the downtown Sacramento Library on K Street. Don't worry about running late for those hair and nail appointments. You'll have the whole day to learn how to walk in those heels because there is no school, thanks to teacher's inservice.

Prom bids will go on sale two weeks before prom. The price is still unknown, but just to be safe you better start saving your allowance.

To help make a better prom, help support all junior class fundraisers. See you there!

Our Voices

This month: Teens and divorce

Since I was in kindergarten, my mother and father have been divorced. I have never really thought much about it, because since I can remember I've lived with my mother, and every other weekend I go to my father's house. I thought this was normal because when I was in third grade that was pretty much everybody's story, too. However, I soon found out that this was not normal, and that kids my age can live in a normal family, because I had friends that lived with their mom and dad.

I understand that sometimes people have problems, but the ones who really get affected are the kids. As a child of divorce, I can talk of problems or things that affected me. I was very young and had to deal with my mom and dad fighting over me. Also, I would have to visit my dad every other weekend and at the same time try to be fair with my mom.

So there I was, eight years old, and I had to balance my time with my mom and dad. A lot of times I would feel that I was the parent and they were the kids, and me trying to be fair all of a sudden would turn into me taking sides. All I wanted to do is be a normal kid, with regular kid problems, like what toy I was going to play with or what friend I would have spend the night.

I felt and still feel cheated that I never got to grow up in a typical American family. You know, mom and dad all living in the same house helping with and sharing each other's problems. Since I didn't grow up that way, I can't say what it feels like, but I'll bet it's a good feeling.

It sometimes scares me that when I get married and have kids I won't know how to hold a household together, because I never lived in one that was normal. It always bothers me when I go to a friend's house and her parents are still together. I almost envy her because she knows what it feels like to have a normal family.

On the other hand, when I think of my life I realize I am lucky. I'm sure it's better to have divorced parents than to have to live with two parents in a "normal" family who are miserable together.

-Lisa Galvez

Divorce is something many couples take as an easy way out. My parents separated on May 17,1994. Little did I know then that this day would affect my life and my emotions forever.

This wasn't by far the first fight or even the first separation for my parents. They have fought for as long as I remember, so you can just imagine my surprise when the word "divorce" came into the picture. You see, to me they were supposed to separate for about a week and then they were supposed to make up and all of us would move on with our lives like nothing had happened, until next time. This is what was supposed to happen, but what happened next was new to everyone.

The divorce was final on November 8, 1995. Even though I am adjusting there are still days that are very confusing. It's hard for me to go to a separate house to visit my dad. I know that there is no one to blame, but I can't help thinking about how my life would be if we had stayed a family.

The family vacations we never took and all the family talks we never got to have are things that I miss. I don't feel like the same person I was. The divorce has caused me to grow up and accept responsibility very quickly. I've learned from the divorce that I can't change what has happened to my family, but I can try to make things different for me. Just because it happened to my parents doesn't mean that it will happen to me.

Jessica's Braindrips

Being Senior Editor of the paper has bonuses. One is getting space to empty out the junk that's been floating around my mind all month into a semi-organized format. I get to do this every month, too! Wait, maybe it's just a creative way to fill space...never mind.

JUST HAND OVER THE CHOCOLATE

Ah, February. The month of love. With Valentine's Day right in the middle, February is dedicated to romance. How sweet. Now excuse me while I puke.

I'm not too fond of Valentine's Day. Can you tell? Oh, sure, I like chocolate as much as the next person, but when everybody else but you gets some on February 14th, the usually sweet taste turns sour.

I haven't enjoyed Valentine's Day since third grade. Do you remember passing valentines out to your classmates? I do. In third grade, I gave mine out with the typical childhood innocence, expecting to get some back. I did. On some of them, though, the pre-printed message was scribbled out, and a mean note penciled in. (I never liked that school...)

So now, nine years later, I have a lasting grudge against February 14th. It's even worse when you're not in a relationship. You see all the happy couples exchanging gifts, or hear your friends gushing over their great relationships (you know who you are. Knock it off around me!) and just think, "I am such the loser!"

It's very strange for me to write this, because I am usually an extremely romantic person. I love romantic movies and songs. The whole process of being in a relationship is great, because you have someone to care about, someone you haven't known all your life. I'll always be a romantic. Hopefully I'll find someone to share it with when I get to college in September. This will probably soften my disdain toward Valentine's Day. Maybe.

Now, pass me the chocolate before I break something.

Coach Massey relieved, not fired

By Josh Branham
Staff Writer

The question that has been floating around school since the football season has ended is, "Why was Coach Massey fired?" First of all, he wasn't fired, he was released from his contract. State law says if an athletic coach is not employed by the school, other than as a coach, then his or her job is up for grabs every year, for a school employee to take.

Basically, this means that if Don Shula were our head football coach, he would have to give up his job if an employee of River City High School applied.

This law was so highly protested by many coaches, that it took the California Supreme Court to rule if this law should be enforced. The law was upheld 3 to 2.

The new varsity football head coach is Mr. McIntyre. Mr. McIntyre teaches Economics and Intro to Business. Although Mr. McIntyre has never been head coach, he has nine years of coaching experience.

Coach Massey will be coaching jv baseball this season.

Jayvee men's basketball ends with 6-6 record

By Joe Dastagirzada
Staff Writer

The 96-97 jv boys' basketball team has finished the season with a 7-17 overall record and are 6-6 in league play under Jamie King.

RC's league wins were against Marysville, Lindhurst twice, Golden Sierra, Encina, and Lincoln. They have lost to Colfax twice, Lincoln, Encina, Golden Sierra, Marysville.

In overall play the leading scorer is Alfredo Rodriguez, who averaged 10.8 points per game. He was also leading rebounder with 153, averaging 6.7 per game.

Ramphanh Keomek leads the team in assists with 97 and steals with 76.

Malcolm Floyd leads the team in blocked shots with 23.

In league play, the leading scorer is again Alfredo Rodriguez averaging 11.1 points per game, and he is the leading rebounder with 65, averaging 5.9 per game.

Ramphanh Keomek again leads the team in assists with 47 and steals with 35.

Malcolm Floyd also leads the team in blocked shots with 23.

Asked what he thinks of this year's team, Alfredo Rodriguez replied, "We had the potential to win, but had no energy to finish games. The problem of the team is that we didn't get along and we always fought, but as the season progressed we got along better."

Alfred Rodriguez has moved up to varsity level, and when asked what he thinks about the move, he said, "It's a big opportunity for me, and I will learn more in the playoffs." He added that he thinks "next year's (varsity) team will take league, and I'm looking forward to playing next year."

Varsity softball starts season off swinging

By Jessica Honsinger
Senior Editor

With springtime coming, the air is filling with the sound of the crack of the bat. This isn't baseball, though. It's softball, and River City's varsity softball team is getting ready to start its season.

This year's varsity team has 13 members: Melissa Aguilar, Mimi Cirerol, Myria Jones, Johnnae Lamar, Cathy Leal, Nikki Novoa, Margo Placencia, Casey Slagerman, Andrea Uribe, Sarah Vanderford, Michele Woods, Tina Woods, and Trina Zimmerman.

Coach Hanagan has high hopes for this year's team. "There is a lot of talent in our younger players," he said.

The 1997 season will be one of transition for the Lady Raiders. With the loss of four starters from last year's lineup, the team has to pull together. Coach Hanagan believes that this year's team will do it and go on to win the league championship. "There are three main reasons that I think we will win," he said. "First, Bear River's departure (from GEL) lessens the field of teams fighting for three playoff positions from eight to seven. Second, all other teams in the league lost starters as well, so they are in transition, too. Lastly, we have returning high-quality players who will help lead the team."

Varsity softball's season started with a scrimmage game at Highlands High School on Thursday, February 20. The Lady Raiders won by a score of 6-4. The team has a scrimmage game on Friday, February 28 at Folsom High School at 3:30. The first league game will be at Golden Sierra High School on Thursday, March 20. The first home game will be against Foothill High School at 3:30 on Thursday, March 6. Come out and cheer on the Lady Raiders!

Tennis team ready to defend championship

By Barbara Silveira
Staff Writer

The tennis team is back in action, and they are hot! Many of last year's champions are back, along with a few new faces. The record for last year's team was 11 and 1 in league and 20 and 2 overall. Asked if the team was going to win the state championship game again this year, Coach Brooks replied, "The format is different, but there is a lot of talent out there, and we will try our hardest." No rash predictions!

This year there is a nine-match format as opposed to the seven-match format. A nine-match format is a dual match where you get one point per match and you play nine matches. So it is basically the best out of nine games.

Returning player Melissa Ferrell said,"We have a lot of good people. I think they are great and they are going to help us win the championship."

The first match of the season is Thursday, February 27, at 3:00 pm. Go out and wish the champions luck for the year.

Swim team dives into '97 season

By Lindsey Ahern
Staff Writer

This year's swim team has many more swimmers than last year. Coach Heller says, "The team will do better this year because there are more kids on the team and fewer teams to compete against." The Raiders' first meet is March 13 against Natomas, at home.

To train for the swim team, members are weight training and won't get into the water until March 1. They are also running to build strength and endurance. When they get into the water, they will practice technique form.

Asked why the swim team interested him, Jason Potnick said, "I've been swimming since I was very young and I've lifeguarded. I like to stay in shape."

1996-1997 swim team members are Lisa Aragon, Jill Braden, Jacob Carriker, Kim Cargile, Jayson Gawthorpe, Jennifer George, Jessica Honsinger, Lynne Laughlin, Sarah Leisure, Jamie McCall, Lilly Merva, Haley Moore, Sarah Moore, Katrina Mistiuk, Jennifer Munsinger, Irina Nelipovich, Sergei Neverov, Jennifer Obara, Hannah Ochoa, Oleg Panchuk, Jason Potnick, Jason Pina, Barbara Silveira, Yulia Suprun, and Tony Venditti.

Women's soccer kicks into high gear

By Rishi Sharma
News and Opinion Editor

"There is lots of talent," says veteran soccer coach Gary Restivo about this year's women's soccer team. The team has been practicing hard and getting into shape. They also have been playing scrimmages against other schools.

Last week, the team played against Natomas. Varsity lost and jv won. However, the team got lots of practice from the match.

Something new for this year's team is the addition of two assistant coaches from West Sacramento, Memo Villegas and Danny Clayton.

Coach Restivo is enthusiastic about this year's team. The team has taken on a younger face with only two seniors, eight juniors, nine sophomores, and twelve freshmen.

Members of this year's team are: Marylou Lara, Alyssa Murphy, Sarah Lesley, Raman Bola, Indira Macsul, Natasha Rojo, Marie Vasi, Maria Contreras, Leticia Farris, Kristy Marston, Kathy Clayton, Tavia Herren, Sara Kirlis, Sarah Franklin, Cheryl Alander, Lindsay Fortune, Tarah Franklin, Melissa Farmer, Carrissa Nicolay, Becky Rose, Nadia Olivan, Kristin Yeargin, Sophia Placencia, Elena Coria, Alana Stenback, Mariah Blazak, Alicia Mosher, Marcia Austin, Bobbie Jo Kavanaugh, Charlene Sprink, and Jessica Clevenger. Angela Kasting and Sarah Templin are the team managers.

The River City varsity baseball team swings into action with high hopes of defending its championship title.

"The talent on this team is very good because of its experience and optimism. With veterans Randy Byard and Lorenzo Vasquez at the mound and us playing defense with our hot bats, we should do just perfect," said veteran third baseman Gary Herren. At the recent McClatchy tournament, varsity beat Foothill, tied Will C. Wood, and lost to McClatchy.

The River City jv baseball team began the season under Coach Massey beating Foothill and Will C. Wood, but losing to McClatchy in the McClatchy tournament.

Multi-Culture Club preparing for dance

By Jorge Melendez
Staff Writer

The Multiculture Club will present it's annual Multiculture Dance on March 29. There will be Asian, Latin, Japanese, Hmong and break dancing.

Khonthavy Phouanglasy, a member of the Asian dance group, says, "It will be a lot better than last year's because of more variety of the dancing."

Last year's Multiculture Dance was a great success with not only with students but parents attending. The dance is not only for fundraising, but for cultural dances to be displayed.

The performance will be held at the River City High School cafeteria. Admission is $4.00 for adults and $2.00 for kids.

New books and new assistant in library

By Barbara Sherwood
Staff Writer

There have been a few changes in River City's library recently. For starters, there is a new librarian assistant, Maria Macias. Often mistaken for another River City student, Maria attends California State University, Sacramento when not at River City.

Another positive change at the library is the addition of the internet. However, students must wait until the librarians have been trained to use it.

The third big change is the addition of new, up-to-date reference materials.

Purchases were made with a one-time grant from the WUSD school board. According to River City librarian, Mrs. Singal, Nancy Thompson-Candee, school board vice-president, has shown particular interest and support for the district's libraries.

RC students strike it rich on Golden State Examinations

51 RC students are recognized by the State of California for their outstanding performances on any one of four tests offered at RC in May of 1996.

By Rishi Sharma
News and Opinion Editor

During May of last year, RC students took the Golden State Examinations along with hundreds of thousands of other students in the State of California. RC offered four of the eight examinations which measure student achievement statewide. Students of all grade levels participated.

The Golden State Examination offers tests in first-year algebra, geometry, US history, economics, biology, chemistry, second-year coordinated science, written composition, and starting next year, government/civics. Testing is conducted during May and any student who wishes to may participate at no cost.

Golden State Examinations began in 1987, with tests in first-year algebra and geometry. In 1996, 512,250 students statewide took the examination in at least one of eight subject areas.

51 RC students were recognized for their outstanding results on the examination.

Kindertransport will carry you away

From Bethany Monroe
Special to The Review

It was one of the greatest atrocities of all times--the Holocaust, one man's attempt for a "final solution." But, there were some fortunate ones. The operation was called Kindertransport. It sent Jewish children from Germany to England before the war began, leaving their family and friends behind. These children were raised by English families, becoming English themselves, knowing part of themselves were still held by the memories of the past. They were the survivors of the Holocaust.

The drama department of River City High School presents, in a world high school premiere, Kindertransport. This play, written by Diane Samuels, tells the story of Evelyn, a Jewish child raised in England and the memories of her former life.

Under the direction of Roy Engoron, Kindertransport premieres tomorrow, February 27. The play will run through March 8th, every Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at Yolo High School.

Although Mr. Engoron feels that directing a comedy is harder, he found a challenge in this tragedy because of the desire to have the play be perfect.

The play consists of a small cast: Joey Mejia as The Ratcatcher, Jaqueline White as Eva, Sarah Templin as Helga, Ashley Carroll as Evelyn, Leticia Valenzuela as Faith, and Alyssa Murphy as Lil. Ms. Carroll, who has performed in musicals, says that her biggest challenge was understanding what the play meant.

Don't miss the chance to see a remarkable play about the Holocaust. For ticket information, call 375-7800.

Lunch time problems at RC

By Jessica Honsinger
Senior Editor

I am normally a calm person. I can understand when there is a traffic jam, or a holdup in a line at a store, but our food services has a major problem.

Lunches at River City are 40 minutes long. This is supposed to be enough time to get food, eat, and socialize a little with friends in the middle of a school day. So why is it that recently, I've only had about 10 minutes to eat? This isn't because I talk with my friends before I get food. Oh no. This is because the lines to the snack bar, cafeteria, and salad bar are in terrible condition. I stand in line and watch as people cut and crowd until the line is a mob.

Why is this happening? The lines at the snack bar used to have a campus aide supervising them like the cafeteria lines do, making sure that these things didn't happen. Where did they go? I realize that everyone is hungry at lunchtime, and that's why they want food. But come on! Cutting and crowding only makes the lines go slower and slower.

The problem has been compounded recently by a metal bar cutting the line area of the snack bar in two. Why is it there? Before, the crowd separated into four lines, more or less. With the four-foot bar there, the semi-lines have dissipated into two clumps of people. I don't see the point of the bar. Students are hanging on the bar, waiting for their friends after they have bought their food and making the snack bar area even more crowded. Also, there is the occasional fight in the line. Is it really wise to have a stationary metal object near a fight? Someone could be seriously injured.

There are four windows to the snack bar. Why is it, then, that more often than not only two are open? I understand that student workers get sick. I'm a prime example of that. But shouldn't there be backup workers?

Students enjoy the snack bar. It gives them an alternative to cafeteria food, or bringing something from home. However, with the amount of student use of the cafeteria, snack bar, and salad bar, students are unable to get and eat their lunch in the amount of time allowed.

Recent scientific research shows students MUST have enough carbohydrates in their blood stream to properly function at school. How can students get enough carbohydrates if they can't get lunch?

Students prepare to select electives

Scheduling will take place in REACH classes on March 20 and 27.

By Courtney Myers and Barbara Sherwood
Staff Writers

Scheduling for next year will be done in REACH classes on March 20 and 27. Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors must decide what electives to choose.

Our school is very fortunate to be able to add electives when many other schools are cutting back. Our students are also being better prepared for the work world in many of the elective classes offered here at RC.

The Review was unable to publish its summarized list of elective courses due to the lack of space in this issue. You may pick up a copy from Ms. Coats.

Rishi's Rhetoric

Black History Month is about so much more than Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. or Malcolm X. During Black History Month, we shouldn't focus only on one time period in which blacks had a great influence, the civil rights movement of the 1950's and 1960's. Instead, Black History Month should be a time when we as Americans look back at the accomplishments of all African-Americans throughout the history of this nation.

We should remember blacks like Crispus Attucks who gave his life at the Boston Massacre in 1770. We should remember Harriet Tubman who conducted thousands of slaves from the South to freedom in the North, and even to Canada through the underground railroad. Americans should appreciate the work of Booker T. Washington, a famous educator, who helped to found the Tuskegee Institute in Alabama.

We in this consumer society should never forget the roles of millions of African-Americans, in the North and the South, who ensured that this nation shifted from an agricultural, self-dependent society, to an industrial, material society.

There were blacks in EVERY war ever fought by the United States, including the War for Independence. Some African-Americans who fought in World War I and World War II did not even receive recognition for their bravery because of the color of their skin.

During this month, we should also reflect upon the impact that blacks have had on the popular American culture. For example, the popular jazz, blues, R&B, gospel music, and so many other music types had their origins in Africa.

African-Americans have perhaps had the greatest impact on sports, a very large part of popular American culture. Just a few of many famous sports figures are: Jackie Robinson in baseball; Mohammad Ali and George Foreman in boxing; Kareem Abdul-Jabar, Michael Jordan, and Magic Johnson in basketball; Tiger Woods in golf; Jerry Rice and Emmitt Smith in football; and Arther Ashe in tennis. All of these people have been role models to this nation and they, too, should be appreciated during Black History Month.

The next time you have a minute to think, just remember the impact that blacks have had on our everyday life, from peanut butter to music to sports. Remember that blacks have been an important part of American history and are a cornerstone of our society and nation.

Fixing the political process: time to plan ahead

With a push from veteran city councilman Wes Beers and freshman council member Christopher Cabaldon, the broad issue of campaign reform will soon be coming before the city of West Sacramento for consideration.

One of the best things West Sacramentans can do for themselves is to pay attention to this discussion.

Reform in American politics can only happen when we snip the ties between politics and money, at least in such a way that big money can no longer overpower the country's citizens and take control of the political process. This needs to happen at the federal, state and local level.

In West Sacramento, we have seen special interest money wield its power over politicians and bulldoze past citizens in special interest campaigns. Although the worst examples of this are a few years distant into the past, it will happen again.

Yolo County saw some scary politics in November over the gravel mining issue; a group of concerned citizens were steamrolled by a well-funded campaign of special interest money. Who was right became unimportant and difficult to fathom. Most important in determining who won that election was not who spoke the truth, but who paid for the most market-researched television commercials.

Campaign reform can come in many forms. It can be in limiting donations from individuals and companies (West Sacramento limits activists to contributing no more than $250 per person for a single candidate), overall spending limits for campaigns, term limits, and limits on how late a campaign can accept money (thus evading the necessity of disclosing its supporters before an election). It can also get into issues such as requiring future candidates and campaigns to report their financial information online, so anyone with a computer and modem can almost instantly find out who is supporting whom.

With no election scheduled for this year, and no high emotions over ongoing campaigns, 1997 is the perfect time for West Sacramento to take a comprehensive look at what its wants to do about campaigns, politics, money and disclosure.

The system is vulnerable to abuse -- that has been proved time and time again. So what will we do to fix it?

Letters to the Editor

Good news

I have a refreshing story to tell you. Yesterday I went to Raley's Market on West Capitol Avenue in West Sacramento at lunch to do some shopping. When I pushed my cart out to the car and unloaded by groceries I forgot my purse in the cart. When I returned to work I noticed my purse wasn't with me, so I hurried back to the store but my purse was gone. I figured it was gone for good. But when I got home from work I got a call from a very nice young lady, Kindra. She was on her lunch break also when she saw my purse and picked it up for safe keeping. My purse was returned fully intact. This kind of honesty and kindness is so refreshing in these times. Thank you so very much Kindra, you are an angel.

Ride-along

An open letter to Capt. Eric Edgar and the C Shift at Station 41:

Thank you for the honor and privilege of riding along with your crew from Thursday, February 20 through Friday, February 21. Along with the stress of putting one's life on the line for the sake of others, I am thankful that you took the time to be the most hospitable of hosts for a civilian ride along for an entire shift.

During my ride along, I was first hand witness to inspections and an emergency call from a water spout that threw rocks (a run-over fire hydrant), to a possible attack with a jalepeno pepper. Watching first hand what entails the life of the firefighter first hand whether rushing on an emergency call in the wee hours of the morning to hazardous materials training during the down time of the day, as a citizen and as a councilmember, I am humbled in the respect I have for the men and women who put their lives on the line to save others.

Again, many thanks for your warm and generous hospitality at station 41. I sincerely hope that I will have the opportunity to ride along again sometime in the near future.

Gravel mining battle

While campaign reform emphasizes the amounts put out by individual candidates to win elections, the information which is now available about the amount spent by October 30, 1996 by the five gravel mining companies to beat the Citizens Initiative (Measure C) on the November ballot, which would have restricted off-channel gravel mining to above the water table, shows that we should also think about and discuss: Can the voters really decide the issues in initiatives if the amounts spent are unlimited?

All but $18,000 of the $600,744.08 spent to beat Measure C and to pass Measure D (deep, wet pit off-channel mining for 50 years on Cache Cree) was contributed by the five companies who will benefit. With close to 31,000 votes for "no" on Measure C and close to 31,000 votes for "yes" on Measure D, the cost per vote was almost $20 and $19 per vote. The companies of D using consultants and pollsters and media experts, direct mail and newspaper ads. Firms from Newport Beach, Maryland, Los Angeles, Mammoth Lakes, Long Beach, San Diego, Orange, and Huntington Beach were called on in this Goliath-beat-David campaign. The citizens expenditures, all individual, were around $10,000. For this, they received 40 percent of the vote.

As the county evaluates the results of the defeat of Measure C and the green light to the gravel miners, we believe that we should give thought to the effect of money in decision making.

Reunions

Over the past several years, there have been many requests that James Marshall High School Class of '72 reunion events be open to other alumni. Because of these requests, the Class of '72 would like to initiate "JMHS Reunion Weekend" during August, 1987. To assist in getting this new tradition established in West Sacramento, it is recommended that other classes join in by planning future JMHS reunions on the same weekend of August each year.

The events planned and the facilities reserved for the weekend of August 22-24, 1997, have made it possible to open up all events to any interested JMHS alumni or former faculty. Other classes celebrating reunions in 1997 are especially encouraged to join in the many events. If other classes would like to hold their own event on Saturday, they can at least join in the fun at the golf tournament and family picnic.

This year's reunion weekend begins with the third annual "all years" golf tournament on Friday, August 22, at Lighthouse Golf Course. The fee for the scramble tournament is $60 and it includes green fees, prizes, cart and a barbecued steak dinner. As of now, the first tee time is scheduled for 12 p.m.; however, efforts are being made to recruit enough golfers for a shot gun start. The tournament awards dinner and raffle will be held that evening at the Goose Club in West Sacramento. The steak dinner for non golfers is $10. On Saturday, August 23, the Classes of '71 and '72 will be the honored guests at a dinner/dance at the Radisson Hotel in Sacramento. The events begins at 6:30 p.m. and costs $50 per person. The weekend winds down with a family picnic which is being planned locally for Sunday afternoon, August 24.

Reservations and payments are required in advance for all events. Alumni and guests will receive a $10 discount on both the golf tournament and the dinner/dance if payment if received by June 15, 1997. The Radisson is also offering a special room rate to JMHS alumni.

The reunion planning committee is looking for interested individuals from the Classes of '71 or '72 who would like to assist in the coordination of the many events. If interested, please attend the next planning meeting scheduled for this Saturday, March 1, at 7 p.m. at the Club Pheasant. If you would like more information about reunion weekend, please contact Judy at 372-8708 (evenings) or 445-8813 (daytime) or Carol at 371-5420.

Union workers who whine as they see their jobs go to China, Mexico, Taiwan, Russia, and Brazil, need to pay attention to local issues. That's where your problems begin. If your representatives keep failing to address the fact that financial benefits are being given to cities and companies to re-establish their businesses in special "zones" which are targeted for job creation. The job creation is geared towards minimum wage, immigrant labor base, using government money and breaking your union. The union itself is benefitting its higharchy while selling you down the river.

The Port Director told what a great job was being done and the commissioner told how diligent they were about making the port work productively. NOT. Over a year ago, the Wall Street Journal and other trade journals, discussed how the NAFFTA and GATT agreements would be giving advantage to the third-world nations with a $1-a-day labor base and no environmental mandates.

Vietnam and Australia are sweeping the markets and Sulpizio gave a juvenile presentation about not knowing how the "market would sail because the wind changes." The council and commissioners voted to let him build warehouses that will be used for bag rice, while the market uses bulk rice. This port has not addressed most of the statements made by the GRAND JURY REPORT over a year ago. It says it has. It says it makes a profit. Saying something does not make it so.

After going to several meetings at the port, and being told that my questions would not be answered, that I should wait for another grand jury report. Icing over baloney presented to the public rather than making this director do his job, in my opinion. The only reason the port showed a profit was due to real estate maneuvers on their part which included selling off the "public land" portion because it was "undevelopable." I did not know that public land had to be developed, I thought it was to be preserved. The port director and commissioners have not done the job of development and diversifying this port so it makes a profit. They just talk about how wonderful it is, but no one asks the "how" question. Notice that he never tells you what is actually being done to bring in more commodities or diversify.

Politicians are at the base of this mess along with the union bigwigs. They do things to benefit themselves while failing at duties. Investment drives everything -- INTERNATIONAL not local. The investment community worries about the dollar flow more than this country. How many union workers or police officers actually voted on who and why they would support a politician-plus most never were able to hear what was presented by the individuals.

Trade zones, enterprize zones, job creation programs need watching. They send your company check and you job down the drain, and create a third-world economy for this country's future. Seeing China's leaders on the news being congratulated for bringing jobs to the community country, while our country looses those jobs, gives rise to a government system that now serves other countries rather than its citizens. You cannot corrupt something that owes you nothing or that cannot give you something. Socialistic programs are manipulating everything now days. But, the ones griping soon get "theirs" and go quietly, leaving a trail of tax-funded programs running our country. Capitalism has been replaced with international corporate fascism funded by our taxes. There is no problem with having immigrants, they have been coming here for centuries. There is a problem when they have the right to change this country into the mess they came from. That surely is not their intention. However, our statesmen see benefit in making sure that they get money through programs and use tax dollars which they should not be entitled to. Especially as Americans are unable to get the same benefits for their own children. This is why the fuss. The old way of allowing immigration serves our country well. If you stop the funding you slow down the drain on federal, state and local taxes and systems. Russia goes bankrupt every time it needs a new bankroll, and if socialism worked that wouldn't be necessary. The US is great without giveaways. And, if people want to give things away, they should do it from their own savings, not the publics.

Eventually, we will have solved the worlds woes and depleted our resources. US sovereignty has already been handed over to a board of ten people through those trade agreements, and no one says a word.

Dole takes credit for the power behind the passing of these agreement and Clinton takes credit for "helping" the world with these agreements. Give them the credit they are due. People like pouting rather than doing anything to remedy these things. Just turn on the TV and think about it later...its later folks.

RETAIL MALL -- good and bad -- Taxes are used to subsidize development of the new mall real estate on Reed and I-80, due to the fact that our city has established fees so large that you cannot develop without borrowing to their financial support and manipulation. Redevelopment Agency staff tells the council that there is a "crisis" every other meeting. The council seems to be powerless at opening their mouths to control staff. Like allowing them to work without OK'ing things through the council. Allowing them to spend money without approval, always saying there was an emergency situation. Vacation Inn being allowed to hold up the city for another $31,000 dollars because they found "other things" that were not known about. If you hire contractors with open contracts, you are VERY rich, naive, or incompetent. Knowing what a project will cost before you go into it is what we hire people for. Creating "expenses" as you go, is for non-profit organizations to do.

Tax payers are not philanthropists. But the point here is when you spend your money to get elected so you can make a difference, why don't you make a difference. Blusterous promises of leading, caring, knowing what to do, and making your mark for "us" voters, fizzles out in the real world of standing on your own two feet and using your spine to elevate yourself to the position of a leader. Someone who directs and is not directed. Politicians are "lambchops" or "muppets" for the money that propels them. Their opinion changes costume if a checkbook appears.

Wild Oates may see their way to changing our landscape. Good news lays in the fact that our city obtained a reputable developer like Buss Oates to involve himself in creating a retail mall for us. You may see this area of town finally flourish with businesses which service this gateway of the region.

VISITORS TO PLACES OF GAMBLING ARE CONDEMNED BY WRITER

Following the discussion that took place in the Boosters' Club last Tuesday evening, the Independent received the following self-explanatory communication from Ray Peek, a property owner of Washington and a father of a growing family.

The letter reads:

Broderick, Calif.,
February 25, 1925.

Mr. P. A. Fitzgerald, Editor of Independent-Leader, Broderick, Calif.

Dear Mr. Fitzgerald: I would be pleased if you would give the following letter on the Chinese question space in your paper at your convenience.

I am pleased at your earnest endeavors to keep the name of our town free from the terrible mess that has located itself at our very door, but, Mr. Fitzgerald, I am sorry to say that we will have to claim our part of it, for located in our town, we have one of the many of these places, running wide open. It is located in the old Warring property at Second and Harriett street, in the building that was operated as a legitimate business, a garage.

The advent of this place without a word of resentment, only means that it will be but a short while and we will have the conditions of a year ago back in our business district, along with the many others at the M street bridge.

It is pitiful to see the feeble attempt made by our authorities in trying to stop the crime that is being committed within our midst by searching these frequenters of these gambling holes. Why do they not start at the base of the trouble if they wish to stop it instead of at the top of it?

Do you suppose that these thousands that visit this vicinity would be there every day if it were not for the gambling houses? Well why try to put it over on the public by searching these patrons and practically on the other hand sanction the gambling that brings them to this county?

When conditions have reached the stage that they have now that our children, mothers and sisters cannot travel a public highway in safety, it is time for us who have a little respect for our community to let our voices be heard and try and make our town a place where we can raise our children decently, without fear of submitting them to insult and injury.

Do you realize that it is unsafe for the young women of this town, who are required to attend high school in Woodland, to go to the M street bridge in order that they may take the electric cars to and from school without the escort of some person to protect them from insult at the hands of this trash that is attracted here by these gambling holes. Probably the school authorities might be asked to use their power to hasten a cleanup of this mess in eastern Yolo county.

There is little or no excuse for our authorities not being able to obtain necessary evidence on these places at present, for they bar no visitors. The above excuse was offered when we asked action in the cleaning up of this undesirable condition of a year ago.

It seems that our officials can enforce the law when they care to, for only a few days ago all the merchandise slot machines in the soft drink establishments and barber shops were ordered out and they were taken out. It seems to me they play favorites, or why should white men, who are earning a living in our town, men who are paying taxes here, be compelled to obey the laws and others who do not have interests in our town be permitted to carry on as they see fit.

Thanking you to give this article space in your paper in hopes that it will awaken others of our citizens to ask that a better condition be given to the people of this section of the country, I remain,

Respectfully,
R. P. PEEK.

STOUTENBURG PLACED UNDER ARREST FOR SALE OF YEN SHEE

John Stoutenberg, age 73, carrying papers showing he was appointed as an acting constable of Yolo county, on May 13, 1924, was arrested at his home in Washington yesterday afternoon by James E. Brown and Thomas R. Cassady, federal narcotic agents, on a charge of possessing and selling narcotics.

Stoutenberg was booked at the police station yesterday for violation of the Harrison narcotic law and was placed in the city jail.

Washington Boosters' Club Gives Serious Consideration to Reports of Gambling Near M Street Bridge

At the meeting of the Washington Boosters' Club, last Tuesday evening, two principal subjects were under consideration.

The first and principal subject was the filling of the town, as suggested in the Independent in its issue of Feb. 20th.

Although the taxpayers of the community see the necessity of this work and are deeply interested in it, they fail, apparently, to combine in a united effort for such betterment.

The prospect of filling the town at this time seems the final move in the improvement of real estate value and it is especially good because in the near future there will be a suction dredger placed in the river to fill the borrow pit north of the Sacramento Northern Railway embankment.

This filling will be done so that the roadway west from the M street bridge can be built by the State Highway Commission to connect with the state highway in West Sacramento through a subway that will be jointly constructed by Yolo county, the State Highway Commission and the Sacramento Northern Railway.

It would appear that many interested parties would be glad to aid in the filling of streets, lots and other property within the limits of the town of Washington; that is to say, from Margaret street north to Rocky Point and from the levee as far west as Eighth street.

A great and necessary improvement confronts those who are interested in navigation in the Sacramento river. The bed of the stream must be cleared by some interests to preserve navigation during the coming summer. The great and serious problem is how to dispose of the material that must be taken out of the bed of the stream to help navigation.

That material cannot be dumped in on Sacramento city, but it could be dumped or pumped into the town of Washington to raise the level of the lots, to raise the level of the streets and to slope the grade from the Front street levee in a gradual declination to a point as far west as Eighth street.

Of course, it would be necessary for every home owner to raise his premises so that the work could be done but surely the property owners would be glad to stand for that if the streets and vacant lots are filled without cost to the people.

If this filling were done within the town of Washington, it is safe to say that property values would be doubled immediately and would even reach to comparative values with properties situated similarly in Sacramento city.

Many corporations are interested in the preservation of navigation of the Sacramento river fronting Sacramento city and as far south as Y street.

The Southern Pacific Co. is interested. The Sacramento-Northern Railway Co. is interested. The Sacramento and San Joaquin Drainage District is interested. Sacramento city proper is interested. The Sacramento Transportation Co. is interested. The state government is interested and the federal government is anxious to do anything for the preservation of navigation.

A combination of these interests could employ a suction dredger to dredge the bed of the Sacramento river and dispose of the filling in the town of Washington, provided the property owners would go to the expense of raising their homes.

The members of the Boosters' Club decided to talk this matter over with their friends, their neighbors and other people who are interested in the subject.

But apparently the members of the Washington Boosters' Club are more interested in the Chinese gambling games that are being conducted near the M street bridge. More time was devoted to that subject than was devoted to the filling of the town.

Ray Peek introduced the subject, calling attention to the deplorable conditions that prevail, especially because children of the town, who are forced to attend the high school in Woodland must pass through that locality at least twice a day.

On motion made by Peek and seconded by Mrs. McNevin, it was decided that the secretary should communicate with the County Superintendent of Schools, Miss Harriett Lee, and with District Attorney Geo. T. Kern, calling attention to these conditions. The secretary, Mrs. H. Palm, was instructed to write to both of the county officials explaining the desires of the Boosters' Club and complaining of the conditions that prevail.

Ed F. Curry was a visitor at the club and explained himself in an open way to complain of Sheriff Monroe. He said that about a week ago he was on his way to the blacksmith shop and saw the sheriff in an automobile with a Chinaman at Third and Harriett streets.

Calling Curry to the automobile, Sheriff Monroe said to him:

"Ed, I told these Chinamen they cannot operate roulette wheels or faro banks, but they can go ahead with their own games as Chinamen have done up to now."

The above information was voluntarily offered by Ed Curry but confirmation of it could not be secured yesterday from Sheriff Monroe.

It was explained by the writer, P. A. Fitzgerald, that county authorities have limits to their actions in entering the premises of any person even hand, an article relating to the passage of an ordinance by the supervisors of Yolo county, at the request of Sheriff Monroe, forbidding the entrance of American men or boys into places of gambling conducted by Chinese and making such entrance a misdemeanor subject to fine or imprisonment.

The article above mentioned and published in the Woodland Democrat was cited only as a sample of the detrimental publicity which the Woodland papers have been lavishing on the town of Washington for many weeks past.

The daily papers of Woodland seem to take particular delight casting odium on the town of Washington and on the people of Washington. Articles have been written not alone relating facts but have been intermixed with vitriol and bitterness towards the people of Washington.

And it is these articles that have been drawing attention of the people of this section of the state to the games that Chinese conduct in the vicinity of the M street bridge and outside the town limits of the town of Washington.

In addition, attention was drawn by the writer to the fact that some muttonhead had communicated the proceedings of the Boosters' Club to the Sacramento Bee and got his wires so badly crossed that the Bee, too, delivered a broadside discrediting the town and the people of the community.

Neither Sacramento nor Woodland can cast any rocks at Washington. Only a few days ago an opium den was discovered near Second and L streets in Sacramento. At least thirty gambling games are running continually in Sacramento and a police force of 100 men has not been able to stop them. But the Sacramento Bee is careful to mention nothing of a detrimental character that occurs in the Chinatown of Sacramento because its columns are filled with the advertising of Chinese stores, Chinese butcher shops and other Chinese patrons.

Woodland can't brag of purity, morality or the exclusion of gambling. Several spirited poker games are going continually at the county seat and although there are four policemen enforcing the law, the games continue.

Unfortunately Washington has but one peace officer, Constable Wilson. His salary is $70 per month and to make a living for his family, he must work at something besides the pittance he receives for his work as constable.

Yet some people expect him to devote all his time to running down Chinamen, dope fiends and other vicious characters who are driven across the bridge by the Sacramento police force every morning after being liberated from the city jail.

Prior to the appointment of Wilson as constable, on January 6th, Constable Buckingham, now supervisor, did everything within his power to suppress the vicious element that crosses the bridges from Sacramento. He succeeded in a fair way, but yet he could not prevent Chinese who are being forced out of Sacramento from renting land or building houses where they will gamble in spite of h—— and high water.

At the Boosters' Club last Tuesday evening, a spirited discussion was conducted along these lines which resulted in the action of the club instructing its secretary to write to District Attorney Kern and School Superintendent Miss Harriett Lee.

T. D. M. Slaven, a publicity agent for the McAnulty Brothers, attended the meeting also last Tuesday evening and explained what was proposed to be done in Westgate during the coming near future. He explained that a big demand for lots and homes is being experienced and that the town would have a population of 10,000 inhabitants within the next ten years. He also explained that there is a possibility of securing a sugar refinery for that community because already this year 25,000 acres of beets have been pledged by farmers of the district and surrounding country to the Spreckels industry of San Francisco and Crockett.

Slaven also explained that the McAnulty Brothers deplored gambling conditions in the vicinity of the M street bridge.

RICHFIELD OIL COMPANY PURCHASED DEPOT SITE HERE

In the vicinity of West Sacramento headquarters, or to be more specific, between the old Kripp home and the Sacramento river, the Richfield Oil Company has purchased ten acres on which the corporation is about to establish a supply depot for oils, gasoline and other products.

This property was formerly owned by a box and barrel company, but that industry failed a few years ago, leaving the land vacant since that time.

It is understood that the Richfield Company will install great storage tanks and will have everything of modern character to supply service stations and individuals for the surrounding country.

The site is convenient to both rail and water. It stands on the edge of the Sacramento river a few hundred feet north of the rice mills. A railroad track is to be extended to the location and a force of men will be kept constantly at work looking after the interests of the concern.

Up to the present time the affairs of the Richfield Corporation have been cared for by J. W. Baughman of Sacramento, but it is understood now that employes will be placed in charge not only to conduct the plant, but to push sales and supply depots for the distribution of their products.

DIRECTORS OF CAMP OWNERS ASSOCIATION MEET HERE

At the West Sacramento Camp during four days of the past week, directors of the Camp Owners' Ass'n. of the State of California were entertained at the West Sacramento Auto Camp by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pereira.

Following the transaction of business on Wednesday evening, a magnificent banquet was prepared by Mrs. Pereira for the visiting directors. A general good time was had by those participating in the meeting and the climax in the banquet on Wednesday evening was a wonderful finish to a session of business and pleasure on the part of the directors.

It is understood that the directors assembled to take part in a discussion of laws that are now before the legislature, to promote those they believe to be worthy and to ask the elimination of those they believe to be vicious.

At any rate, the convention wound up in a hearty way when the assembled officials dispersed to their homes on Wednesday evening and Thursday morning.

Learn the benefits of an enterprise zone

From Art Schroeder
Community Relations
Redevelopment &
Housing Agency
City of West Sacramento

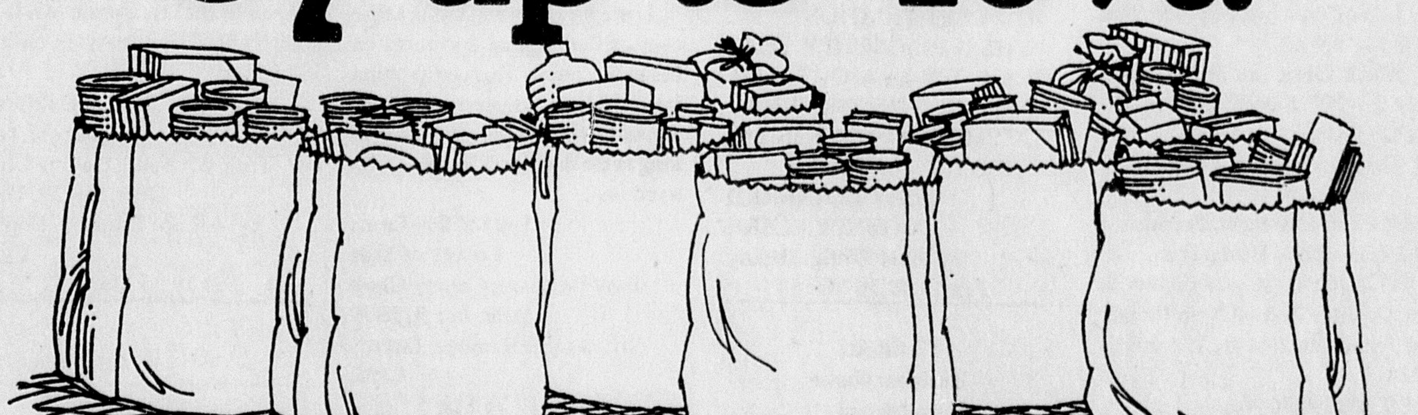

Locating a business in a city designated as an Enterprise Zone brings tax advantages and hiring opportunities. West Sacramento is qualified to participate in this recently revised state program. Local businesses will learn about the Enterprise Zone's substantial tax credits and deductions in a new workshop presented by the City of West Sacramento.

The Enterprise Zone Workshop is Thursday, March 20, from 9 to 11 a.m. at Cafe Vienna, 1229 Merkley Ave. Speakers from the state's Franchise Tax Board and Trade and Commerce Agency will make presentations and answer questions. The business community is invited to attend.

The State of California enacted the new Enterprise Zone Act on January 1, 1997, taking the best features of previous programs and adding new incentives. The program's primary purpose has been to stimulate business development. Businesses find key benefits in the credits for sales and use taxes and employee hiring. The new act expands business expense deductions and the pool of employees designated for hiring credits. West Sacramento is one of only 39 enterprise zones in the state.

Admission to the Enterprise Zone Workshop is complimentary. Because seating is limited, those interested in attending are asked to R.S.V.P. by calling the City Redevelopment Agency at 373-5843.

Southern Pacific Railroad. The boat tipped over slowly, filling with water and sinking to the bottom. No one was injured.

Johnson unsuccessfully sued Southern Pacific over the loss of the boat.

"The cables were too low, but we were unable to prove that they were too low, so we lost the lawsuit," said Johnson.

No one at the railroad familiar with the lawsuit could be reached for comment.
